SELF CARE

Hair heroes

The haircare industry in Ireland has become even more exciting. Legendary hairstylist Sam McKnight (who was behind many iconic looks such as Princess Diana's short 1990s cut) launched his highly-anticipated care and styling range in Brown Thomas, with prices ranging from €18 and €58. We especially like the Cool Girl texture spray for that Kate Moss-inspired 'done, undone' look. Also new to the Irish market via Boots, is personalised haircare Function of Beauty, which is a very smart concept: choose your shampoo/conditioner based on your hair type, then add booster shots based on your specific needs, whether that's volume, strength or length. Next up, we're impressed by new Irish brand Curly Co. (thecurlyco.ie), for curly-haired folk, as well as KiwiSalt (€28.99, kiwicutz.com), a new texture spray by award-winning hair stylist Ciarán O'Sullivan using hand harvested Achill Island sea salt and kiwi extract for a beautiful beachy look. And, who doesn't love a multi-use product? NUXE's Huile Prodigieuse Néroli Multi-Purpose Dry Oil (€36, all major pharmacies) smells truly divine, and can be used as a hydration boost for hair, face and body – perfect for holidays. Speaking of jetting off; how handy is OLAPLEX's Discovery Kit, containing all its bond-repairing heroes in mini-size; €70, salons and nationwide e-tailers.
